IMPORTANT NOTES FROM AIA MINNESOTA

The AIA Minnesota office is closed. All staff are working remotely, available via email and phone.

All meetings will be conducted via Zoom. Please check the website calendar for updates on events, and note meeting details below.

Words to Actions

By Karen Lu, AIA, NOMA, AIA Minnesota President

"Do the best you can until you know better. Then when you know better, do better."

-- Maya Angelou

It has been one month since the murder of George Floyd-yet it feels like it happened both days ago and ages ago. Too many people's eyes are just now being opened to hundreds of years of Black oppression and trauma caused by systemic racism in the form of racial covenants, gerrymandering, and mass incarceration, to name but a few. Our communities are experiencing a wide range of emotions - anger and grief, numbness and paralysis, guilt and denial.

The events here in Minnesota have been broadcast around the world. Our actions are being watched, and they will be remembered. As an architecture community, we must hold ourselves accountable for our complicity in racial injustice; we must transform the way we live and work; and we must hear and heed the voices of our Black and POC colleagues:

"Justice and equity are part of any architecture worth doing."

"Letter to the Editor: Minneapolis's Sam Olbekson on building a just community." The Architect's Newspaper, Midwest. 9 June 2020. Sam Olbekson, ACAE, AIA, NCARB, citizen of the White Earth Nation of Ojibwe, immediate past president of the American Indian Council of Architects and Engineers, CEO of Full Circle Indigenous Planning, and principal of Cuningham Group Architecture.

"What role can we play in shifting the narrative from ash to phoenix?"

"Letters to the editor: Thoughts from the ground." The Architect's Newspaper, National. 11 June 2020. Lyssa Washington, Assoc. AIA, NOMA, President of MSP AoA NOMA and project manager at 4RM+ULA.

"Change is necessary. It is inevitable. ...I ask people to be more inclusive. To be open to partnering. To be able to be silent and listen to the realities of people who don't share your privilege. ...Think bigger, think broader, think more inclusively, and think a little bit more humbly about people that have not had your shared experience and have not had access to the opportunities that you have had access to - over, and over, and over."

"Podcast: James Garrett Jr. Hopes George Floyd Is the Final Wake-Up Call Architects Need." Architect Magazine. 11 June 2020. Wanda Lau interviewing James Garrett Jr., AIA, NOMA, founding partner of 4RM+ULA, 2019 AIA National Young Architects Award winner, and 2016 AIA Minnesota Young Architects Award winner.

In the past few weeks, AIA Minnesota and MSP AoA NOMA leadership have met with members, architecture students, allied partners, community organizations, contractors, and philanthropic foundations. We have attended and supported meetings and panels on developing equity, the commodification of Black protest art, and Design Justice for Black Lives. Together, we have developed a program to match the needs of businesses and organizations impacted by the unrest, with services provided by architects and designers. We are also advocating for long-term visioning and design efforts led by affected communities and by Black and POCI architects and designers.

At the beginning of June, the national AIA Board of Directors released a statement and confirmed that systemic racial injustice is now a top organizational priority alongside the climate crisis. AIA members and stakeholders were invited to "hold us accountable in the coming months and years to ensure that our deeds match our words." In addition, members of the AIA Large Firm Round Table wrote an open letter to members of the National Organization of Minority Architects and pledged to create "a design profession that mirrors the diverse voices of the very communities we serve."

We have long known that the effects of climate change and social inequities are inextricably intertwined. What we now need to acknowledge is that environmental justice and racial justice are also ethical imperatives for the profession of architecture. Addressing these priorities requires steadfast progress focused on impact, not just intention. It will require deep resolve from all of us to learn from our mistakes and keep moving forward - together.

RACIAL JUSTICE RESOURCES

Connecting Damaged Businesses with Architectural Services

MSP AoA NOMA, the Twin Cities chapter of the National Organization of Minority Architects, in collaboration with AIA Minnesota, has established an approach for supporting businesses and community organizations in areas impacted by damage from the unrest after the murder of George Floyd.

Businesses and organizations are invited to complete a form to be matched with teams of architects, engineers, and designers based on their needs, including guidance on making buildings safe to occupy, repairing damaged spaces, or envisioning a new built space. Members of MSP AoA NOMA and AIA Minnesota who want to be involved-or are already working with an affected property-are encouraged to use this tool to share their information.

Our goal is for Black and POC-led architecture and design firms to take the lead in engaging with business owners and organizations, especially in the context of longer-term visioning and design efforts, with other AIA Minnesota member firms being matched for more immediate pro bono needs and to support the efforts of Black and POC-led firms.

The goal of this initiative is anything but a "return to normal." MSP AoA NOMA and AIA Minnesota are committed to drawing on our members' expertise in shaping the built environment to design places and spaces that are more equitable, inclusive, and resilient, while centering the needs and desired outcomes expressed by the business owners and organization leaders. Professionals of color leading this initiative, and the design community as a whole, can leverage our connections and privileges to advance justice, shift public policy, enhance self-determination, preserve and invest in Black cultural spaces, and reimagine the financial model of neighborhood design. (See Design Justice for Black Lives for more.) As necessary, we will work with stakeholders to seek funds for services rendered and to secure individual property needs as necessary.

CALL TO ACTION

First Special Legislative Session Ends Without Bonding Bill

Despite intense efforts of AIA Minnesota members, staff, and lobbyists, and the broader A/E/C industry, the first special session ended in late June without significant action in many policy areas, including bonding, police reform, COVID-19, and more. Our AIA Minnesota lobbying team predicts that a new special session will convene in mid-July to make progress on these important topics.

AIA Minnesota has updated its sample bonding email language to reflect the urgency of completing the bill during the July special session. We strongly encourage members to engage with their State representatives in the days following the July 4th holiday. Find your legislators and voice your support for a bonding bill »

Women in Architecture Grant Application

Minnesota Architectural Foundation (MAF) launched the Women In Architecture (WIA) Fund in 2018 to promote equity by supporting the advancement of women in the profession of architecture. MAF announces they are now accepting their second round of grant applications and will distribute up to $5,000 in grants! The work accomplished with the grant must directly support and impact women in the profession of architecture. Application deadline is October 1, 2020. Learn more about eligibility and apply »

AIA Minnesota Launches National Intercultural Development Program

This August, AIA Minnesota will launch an intensive, 10-session virtual leadership program open to members and practitioners around the country, intended to grow the capacity of leaders in the architecture community to lead inclusively and to engage in sustained action to address systemic racism in the profession of architecture and in the built environment.

Sessions are focused on understanding identity, power and conflict styles, and recognizing differences that make a difference, particularly differences related to gender and race/ethnicity, as applied to the culture of architecture firms and to the built environment. Participants will take the Intercultural Development Inventory (IDI) Assessment as well as the Intercultural Conflict-Styles Inventory (ICS). Learn more »

WHITNEY M. YOUNG, JR. AWARD OPEN FOR NOMINATIONS

Civil rights leader Whitney M. Young Jr. challenged the profession to pursue progressive values in architecture. This award is named in his memory and is one result of that challenge, and distinguishes an architect or architectural organization that embodies social responsibility and actively addresses a relevant issue, such as affordable housing, inclusiveness, or universal access. This social engagement isn't restricted to architecture; it can be expressed in any area of the nominee's life or work. Submissions due September 1. Learn more »

DESIGN IN A POST-PANDEMIC WORLD: THE CHANGING WORKPLACE (DISCUSSION)

Wednesday, July 29, 12:00 - 1:15 pm

1 AIA LU/HSW, Pending Approval

Design in a Post-Pandemic World is a discussion series that looks at how the COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated changes already underway before the global crisis began, how those changes will likely affect our lives from now on, and how we can use the crisis to construct a more humane, equitable, and sustainable future. Each session begins with a brief introduction to the topic of the day, followed by large and small group discussions as a platform for practical futurism: to envision what could be and identify ways to move in more positive directions through collaboration and design.
