Reciprocal Mentorship
By Alicia Belton, FAIA, NOMA, AIA Minnesota President

I’ve been reflecting lately on my untraditional career path in architecture and the role mentorship has played in shaping my life and my work.

I first interned in a small two-person firm, followed by another summer internship for a real estate department at a university. After graduate school, I worked for a Fortune 500 company before starting my own practice. Each of these positions was grounded in the desire to not only gain meaningful work experience but also in the value of having work-life balance in an environment that supported my well-being and growth. Equally important for me was seeing how attention to diversity, inclusion, and equity were implemented in leadership and practice.

Working at these places also provided invaluable experiences in mentorship. Through a formal mentorship program at that Fortune 500 company, I was paired with a female manager who was married with children and not in architecture. The hours she spent with me provided helpful and timely insights, since I was fresh out of school and learning how to manage my own life.

Her mentorship inspired me to embrace the responsibility of giving back to others. It led me to find a place within the organization where I could serve; I joined a recruiting team for my alma mater. Although it was early in my career, I recognized that I had practical skills and life lessons to share with those who were beginning their own professional journeys.

Our profession has traditionally practiced a one-way apprenticeship model where the older generation takes the younger generation under their wing. I’m happy to see that there is growing recognition of another way: reciprocal, two-way.
mentorship.

In fact, at this point in my career, people younger than me tend to be my greatest source of inspiration and learning. Yes, I will be the first to admit that I am technology challenged and my digital-native mentors have taught me a lot. The passionately talented, up-and-coming and ready to change the world design professionals in my life also regularly broaden my knowledge in sustainability and equity.

Professional mentorship is best when we see ourselves as simultaneously mentors and mentees. As we give, we receive. When we learn, we grow. And, together, we create a better profession and a better world in the process.

Don't Miss AIA Minnesota Award Deadlines
Several AIA Minnesota Awards programs have deadlines coming up in the next few weeks. Don't miss these opportunities to recognize your peers and outstanding design projects.

NEXT GEN AWARD
In keeping with AIA Minnesota’s mission to build and mentor the profession, the Next Gen Award is given to recent graduates of an accredited NAAB architecture program who have demonstrated early leadership potential or exceptional service to the AIA, the architecture profession, or the community at large.
Candidate submissions should demonstrate early leadership potential and exceptional service; substantial involvement in a committee, knowledge community, or initiative of AIA Minnesota; contributions to the profession of architecture through academic, professional, or volunteer efforts; and/or significant contributions to the community through volunteering, activism, or leadership activities.

Submissions for the Next Gen Award are due Friday, June 3, at 12:00 pm CST. Learn more »

AIA MINNESOTA YOUNG ARCHITECTS AWARD

The AIA Minnesota Young Architects Award is given to individuals who, in an early stage of their architecture career, have shown exceptional leadership and made significant contributions to the profession and the community at large. AIA Minnesota members who have been licensed to practice architecture for less than 10 years and are currently licensed in Minnesota are eligible.

Submissions for the Young Architects Award are due Friday, June 3 at 12:00 pm CST. Learn more »

AFFORDABLE HOUSING DESIGN AWARD

This award program is supported by the McKnight Foundation and aspires to improve the visibility and stature of affordable housing design to increase public support of affordable housing; recognize design and development teams and affordable housing organizations that have designed excellent, affordable housing projects; encourage a broad understanding of how financing mechanisms, cost, diverse client populations and community-based design processes contribute to a completed work of architecture; and/or elevate affordable housing that advances environmental justice and equity.

Submissions for the Affordable Housing Design Award are due Friday, May 20 at 12:00 pm CST. Learn more »

Delegates Needed to Attend AIA Business Meeting

June 9, 2022

Virtual

Delegates are official representatives of their chapter and participate in the 2022 AIA Annual Business Meetings and election of Officers and At-large Director. Duties include reviewing summaries of candidates’ experience and qualifications, listening to pre-recorded candidate speeches, attending a pre-meeting (June 6, 2022, 4:00-5:00pm) the virtual 2022 AIA National Annual Business Meeting (June 9, 2022, 12:00-4:00pm CST) and virtual Candidate Caucus (June 10, 2022, 12:30-1:30 pm CST), and vote online for Officers and At-large Directors. We need delegates from AIA Northern Minnesota, AIA St. Paul, and AIA Minneapolis. If you are interested, please email Amber Allardyce by May 20.

Minnesota Office of Legislative Auditor (OLA) Seeks SB 2030 Input

The Minnesota Office of the Legislative Auditor (OLA) is beginning an evaluation of the state's sustainable building guidelines for new buildings and major renovations that receive funding from bond proceeds. We are seeking input from stakeholders like you to help us develop our evaluation questions and the scope of our research activities.

To provide input, please complete our online questionnaire located here by May 13, 2022. Please feel free to forward this invitation to others who may want to provide feedback on the state’s sustainable building guidelines.

Potential areas of study include:

- To what extent have new state buildings and major renovations that received funds from the bond proceeds fund been compliant with sustainable building guidelines, as required by law?
- What is needed to ensure that such state buildings and major renovations comply with sustainable building requirements before money is encumbered on a project?
- Who is in charge of enforcing this statute, and does this need to be clarified in law?

Depending on the feedback we receive, we may alter the focus of the evaluation.

Equity in the Built Environment Committee
Formerly known as the Committee on Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion, the group made a pivot in 2021 to focus exclusively on issues related to equity in the built environment. In 2022, the EBE Committee will be examining how others within the profession and those outside the profession practice centering equity in the built environment. Members also hope to develop resources to grow understanding about equitable design practices and related topics. We are a group of architects and designers learning as we go. If you’re interested in learning with us, please join us!

Contact Angie McKinley or PaviElle French for more information.

LEADERSHIP FORUM

Leadership Forum 2022
This month’s Leadership Forum continued the exploration of the connection between communication and being an effective leader. This full day session focused on:
- Building trust to strengthen motivation and engagement
- Increasing awareness of unconscious bias
- Specific things to do to be a more intentionally inclusive leader
- Turning conflict into courageous conversations

Through a combination of presentation, dialogue, and interactive activities the cohort explored the latest research on these topics and discussed ways to apply this new learning and skills to their role as a leader in their firms, communities, and homes.

A’22 MN: THE MINNESOTA CONFERENCE ON ARCHITECTURE
AIA Minnesota is pleased to host its annual conference on architecture in person at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

A’22 MN will be a powerful event filled with inspiring and educational programming, opportunities for connection and networking. Prominent keynote speakers will join us to share their knowledge on the issues impacting your practice today.

Call for Proposals
Program planning is now just beginning and our committee is seeking ideas and proposals for continuing education presentations for all three days of this year’s Conference. Visit A’22 MN Proposals to access the online form. Deadline is Friday, June 3, 2022.

Scheduling. As you submit your proposal, we ask you to keep open all three days of the Conference. Final scheduling will be made by the selection committee and AIA Minnesota staff. Striving to reduce the climate impact of this conference, we will be scheduling - as much as possible - programs with speakers who will not need to travel.

Topics to Propose. The selection committee seeks proposals on a wide variety of topics for all building types including design; ethics; equity in the built environment; equity in the profession; future of the profession; healthcare design; materials and systems; practice; preservation; residential design, rural design; sustainable, resilient, regenerative design; technology; and urban design, to name a few.

Ideas: And if you don’t have a proposal to make, but simply have an idea for a topic or speaker, let us know. Send your suggestions to Deanna Christiansen.

COMMITTEE AND KNOWLEDGE COMMUNITY UPDATES

ARCHITECT LICENSING ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Thursday, May 5, 12:00
Virtual Meeting
A Shift from Prometric to PSI for the ARE Starting June 14, 2022, you can take the Architect Registration Examination through NCARB’s new exam delivery partner, PSI. PSI will replace Prometric for both in-person and online testing.

Here are some things to know:
- The exam isn’t changing.
- You can begin taking the exam through PSI starting June 14. You can start making appointments late spring (NCARB will notify you of exact date).
- You can schedule and take exams through Prometric through May 31.
- Prometric appointments cannot be transferred to PSI.
- Get ready for a better exam experience.
  - More direct customer service
  - More flexible and less expensive exam rescheduling
  - More detailed feedback on failing score reports
  - More physical test center locations

Use these links for more detail:
- A comprehensive list of test centers that meet NCARB’s technical and security requirements (a Google search will not be comprehensive of sites partnering with NCARB)
- ARE 5.0 Guidelines (Draft) for instructions on scheduling and testing with PSI.
- Continue using this version of the ARE 5.0 Guidelines (Prometric) until you migrate to PSI.
